And tho' to-day you can say: "Good-bye", Some day you'll hunger for me.
Nor hear the birds that we both love so, They'll take their songs all to thee.

And tho' in far o'er the desert sands.
But rivers merge all into the sea,

Or 'way bey'ond all the icy lands,
Flow'r's give their souls, love, unto the bee;

Listening I'll hear you calling, dear,
Such is my love for thee.

REFRAIN.

Mountains can hold me, No

Oceans divide: No pow'r, when you call, Can keep me, love, from your side. Tho' years come and years go, My love cannot die; For life is mine, because.

I love thee Good-bye, my love, goodbye.
