"Hearts and Flowers."

C. Fischer's Edition.

A New Flower Song.

Words by
MARY D. BRINE.

Music by
THEO. MOSES-TOBANI.

Moderato.

Voice. (high)

Piano.

Out a-mongst the flowers sweet,
Sow-ing with her hands so white,

Lingers pretty Marguerite,
Future blossoms, fair and bright.

When I say, "Oh Marguerite,
Turn it to a garden fair,
All my heart is at your feet,
See it blossom 'neath your care.

Kiss sweet Marguerite for me.

Won'drous fragrance all your own.

And—its sweetest flowers shall grow.

Un Poco Agitato.

And the sun beams lovingly,

Till it yields for you alone.

Kiss sweet Marguerite for me.

Won'drous fragrance all your own.

Tempo I'no

Kiss—my little lady sweet,

And its sweetest flowers shall grow.

Tempo I'no
Blue eyed gentle Marguerite!
For my Marguerite I know!

Blushes deepen in her cheek, Ere the shy red lips can speak,

"Ah! but what if weeds should grow, Mongst the flowers you bid me sow?"
Un Poco Agitato.

Love will pluck them out, I cry.

Trust me, Marguerite so shy,

Tempo Imo

Let my heart your garden be

Tempo Imo

Give the seeds of love to me.
