I'll Be With You When The Roses Bloom Again.

(Whitmore & Hilliard)

Words and Music by Cobb & Edwards.

Andante espressivo.

1. They are roaming in the gloaming, where the roses are in bloom, Just a soldier and his sweetheart, staunch and true,

2. 'Mid the rattle of the battle comes a whisper, soft and low, For a
   But her heart is filled with sorrow, and her soldier boy has fallen in the fray, "I am dying, captain, dying, and I thoughts are of the morrow, As she pins a rose up, on his coat of blue, "Do not know that I must go, - But I want your promise ere I pass away. There's a Copyright 1901 by F. A. Mills, 48 West 29th St. New York.

Chicago, Grand Opera House Bldg. English Copyright Secured.
I ask me, love, to linger, for you know not what you say, When my far and distant river, where the roses bloom so fair, There's a duty calls, my sweet heart's voice is vain, But your maiden who is waiting all in vain, It is heart need not be sighing, If I'm not among the dying, I'll be there I'd have you take me, I've been faithful, don't forsake me, I must with you when the roses bloom again; be there when the roses bloom again;

I'll Be With You, etc.
CHORUS.
Slow.

When the roses bloom again beside the river, And the robin redbreast sings his sweet refrain, As in days of Auld Lang Syne, I'll be with you, sweetheart, mine, I'll be with you when the roses bloom again.

I'll Be With You, etc.