Chasin' The Blues

By BUD GREEN, AL. BERNARD
and AL. PIANTADOSI

I just heard of a new dance,
Hon-ky Tonk-town's crazy,

Right from Honky Tonk Town,
'Bout this new—fangled step,
Once the natives were lazy

That is gaining renown
Now they're chock—full of pep,
If you dancing mad,

Take your pen—and pad
And just copy this down.
Teach that dance— to you

Bring your baby close up to your side, Fall into a slow and easy stride,

Swing right along with the melody Hop-stop Then you knock your knee

Climb right on your toes and do it neat, Shuffle to the right and then repeat — And if you want to make it a hit — Shake your shoulders a bit — Do it just as often as you choose — That’s the dance called Chasin’ the Blues. Blues.
